AND COMES HOME AND GIVES THEM AN AX.

The Pittsburg correspondent of the New York Herald, under date of May 2, gives the I slowing particulars of the arrest of the murderer of the Hamnet family and his confession of the horrible crime: The black-hearted flend who butchered and burned the Hamnet family was arrested in Alleghany City this morning, and at present lies in jail at this city. All day yesterslay detectives were making untiring efforts to get trail of the murderer. A man giving the name of Ernest Ortwein was suspected on account of his strange conduct, and so nearly filling the description gives by those who knew him, he was traced to various places in the city and finally he was heard of in Alleghany City. About-5 o'clock yesterday afternoon he made his appearance on Troy hill. A number of men were talking about the murder and this stranger joined in the conversation. He said that he had worked for Mrs. Hamnet.

As soon as he had said this he became alarmed and ran off at full speed. Officer Quirk, of the Alleghany police force, gave chase, and soon spectored.

found at a store on Ohio street. It contained a lot of clothes, nearly new. In a vest was found at assessor's notification of valuation, a piece of paper on which are pencil figures, a tun-cent serip and a railroad ticket over the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston railroad. The assessment paper is signed by "A. Behl, assessor," and s directed to John Hamnet, giving the valuation of his property at $12,700. The piege of paper with the figures evidently contains Mr. Hamnet's estimate of value of his property, being found in connection with the assessor's valuation. The vest was doubtless one worn by Mr. Hamnet. When it became generally known that the greatest excitoment provailed, and the Tombs in Alleghany were soon surrounded by an excited throng. It was feared that efforts would be made to lynch the prisoner, and it was found necessary to place a strong guard of police along the corridors of the Tombs. He gave his name as Ernest Ortwein, and his appearance was not calculated to impress one favorably. This fiend, whe murdered a family of fire for $15, is about five feet eight inches in height, heavily built and would eight inches in height, heavily ballt and would weigh 175 pounds. He has a big, round, buildog head, rather broad, flat nose, low forehead and small eyes. His face is large, red, appears passed up by drink and bears every evidence that he has been spreeing for a day or two past. He has a short, sandy mustache and a little tuft of hair in the dimple of his chin.

He was dressed in a fine black freekcoat, dark figured pants, white shirt and a small slik neck-tie. He has a very short, thick neck. A black slouch hat was lying on a bench beside him. His shoes are new, as is all of the clothing he has on. He said he was a native of Stutigart, Wurtem-berg, and came to this country about a year ago, and first worked as a farm hand with Peter Ramto said he left Hamnet's dwelling just after sup-It is said he left Hammet's dwelling just after sup-per on the night of the murder, and went directly to the village of Homestead. He drank two glasses of beer in a saloon by the wayside, which is all the beverage he had that night. After quitting the saloon he went to a grocery store, where he got some cigars, also some candy for the Hamnet children. He then goes on and tells the following story to the press representatives, through an interpreter: "Just as I was leaving it came into my head that I must have Hammet's money. I thought he had a great deal of money money. I thought he had a great deal of money in the house, and as I felt so queer all at once in my head I thought I must get it. I went directly to the house, but don't know how I got there. I suppose I must have been out of my mind. After getting into the house I found Mr. and Mrs. Hannet had not come home. It occurred to me I MUST KILL THE CHILDREN.

moved. I can't say how it was that the boy's throat was cut. I may have struck him twice, but he never groaned. After the boy was dead I went into the adjoining room, where Ida and little Eumie were sleeping. There were two beds in the room, one in a corner and the other, the one occupied by the children, near the centre. Both of the little girls were sleeping. I crept wer cautiously to where they simmbered, and I dealt Ida a fearful blow, which silenced her forever. She never moved a muscle; she was dead in a minute. I then raised the are and struck at Emfoor of the room adjoining the kitchen, and WAITED FOR MR. AND MRS. HANNET pockets and obtained bis pocketbook.

IT CONTAINED ONLY FIFTHEN DOLLARS in paper money. I found Mirs. Hanned's pocketbook on the sewing machine. There was only fifty cents in it. I looked over the house, but all the money I got was $15. The silver money I spent I brought with me from Germany. I did not get it from the house. My only motive for doing this doed was to get the money. I never had any ill feeling toward any, of the Hammets.
I always liked the little offidere, and I always brought them candy when I went to Homestead. I always liked the little children, and I always brought them candy when I went to Homestead. The boy Smith and I were good friends, and I always liked Mr. and Mrs. Hamnet. I did not fire the house, and it was not a part of my plan to cover up the murder. When searching the heuse I put an eil lamp in the sitting-room, and when rushing away from the building it was overturned. I thought it would go out. I did not think the beause would have.

ESCAPING FROM THE SCENE. As soon as I left the building I proceeded at once to the railroad, and walked direct to Pittsburg. I stopped at several places, but don't know the names of the places. I came over to Pittsburg, and went to see my friend Baler, on Pennsylvania parents of Ortwein, who lived in Stuttgart, are well off. During the Franco-Prussian war he was

AN OHIO GIANT. A Cleveland paper relates a number of anec-dotes illustrative of the strength and size of Abner McIlrath, whom it dubs a giant. It appears that McIlrath is sixty-one years of age; and is six feet seven and a half inches, standing in his boots, feet seven and nationes, teaching in its coos, fairly proportioned in form, without an ounce of waste flesh. He was and is a giant in muscular strength as well as physically. He has lifted 1,700 pounds of iron, and a blow with his massive fist and long arm was so powerful that on one occasion, when some twelve or fifteen sailors want to have the sailors want to have the sailors want to have the sailors want. casion, when some twelve or fitteen saliors were out to his place to "raise a muss," he thrashed the whole lot and thraw them one by one out of the door, just as one could throw so many bables, and during that operation he dared not double his fist, for fear his blows might prove fatal to some of the rowdles. "Abe" formerly carried on the business of a cooper, and used to come to tewn with his load of barrels. On one cocasion, while stopping at the "Red tavern," lately known as the "Jackson house," and which is now torn down, a snob from town, who was out there with his turnout, in the shape of a livery horse and buggy, got into a difficulty with Abe, and having insulted him in some way or another, Abe resented it by him is some way or anchor, no resistant it by lifting the buggy right up and streadding it across the fence, and then got on his wagon and drove off to town, whistling as though nothing was the matter, and leaving the luckies dandy to get his buggy off the fence as best he was able.
